DETAILED ACTION

Allowable Subject Matter

1. Claims 1-21 are allowed.

The following is an examiner's statement of reasons for allowance:

Fency et al. (U.S. Patent No. 6,217,354) disclose an electrical connector assembly (10) for mating with a mating connector (14), the electrical connector assembly (10) including a housing (12), a slide assist member (58) slideably supported on the housing (12) to facilitate mating with the mating connector (14), and a lever (42) pivotally connected with the housing (12), the lever (42) including an arm (44) connectable with the slide assist member (58) for causing the slide assist member (58) to slide from a pre-staged location (Fig. 5) to an engaged location (Fig. 7) with respect to the housing (12) in response to the lever (42) being pivoted from a pre-staged position (Fig. 5) to a engaged position (Fig. 7) relative to the housing (12), the slide assist member (58) including a notch (52b); and the arm (44) including a protrusion (70) which mates with the notch (52b) when the slide assist member (58) is in the engaged location (Fig. 7) and the lever (42) is in the engaged position (Fig. 7). See Figs. 1-7.

Drescheler et al. (U.S. Patent No. 6,213,795) disclose an electrical connector assembly (10) for mating with a mating connector (14), the electrical connector assembly (10) including a housing (16), a slide assist member (30, 31) slideably supported on the housing (16) to facilitate mating with the mating connector (14), and a lever (58) pivotally connected with the housing (16), the lever (58) including an arm (60) connectable with the slide assist member (30, 31) for causing the slide assist member (30, 31) to slide from a pre-staged (Fig. 6) location to an engaged (Fig. 2) location with respect to the housing (16) in response to the lever (58) being pivoted from a pre-staged (Fig. 6) position to a engaged (Fig. 2) position relative to the housing (16), the slide assist member (30, 31) including a notch (80); and the arm (60) including a protrusion (68) which mates with the notch (80) when the slide assist member (30, 31) is in the engaged (Fig. 2) location and the lever (58) is in the engaged (Fig. 2) position. See Figs. 1-6.

However, the references fail to teach, disclose, or suggest, either alone or in combination, the protrusion being functional to interferingly abut the slide assist member and prevent movement of the lever from the pre-staged or first position to the engaged or second position when the lever is disconnected from the slide assist member and an attempt to move the lever from the pre-staged or first position to the engaged second position does not correspondingly move the slide assist member from the pre-staged or first location to the engaged or second location and in combination with the rest of the limitations of the base claims.

Any comments considered necessary by applicant must be submitted no later than the payment of the issue fee and, to avoid processing delays, should preferably accompany the issue fee. Such submissions should be clearly labeled "Comments on Statement of Reasons for Allowance."

Conclusion

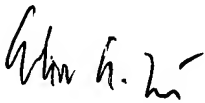

2. The prior art made of record and not relied upon is considered pertinent to applicant's disclosure. Busse et al. (U.S. Patent No. 5,681,175), Bigotto et al. (U.S.

Patent No. 6,345,995), Martin et al. (U.S. Patent No. 6,558,176) and Seutschnicker et al. (U.S. Patent No. 6,168,445) disclose connector assemblies having levers, slide assist members and arms having protrusions.
